To: Customers of Painted Hills Natural Beef

Painted Hills Natural Beef, Inc. does not use cloned animals in the production of natural beef. We do not, nor ever plan to use genetically cloned animals in our program.

We will continue to watch our industry closely to ensure a distinct division in the use of these cloned genetics. Our efforts include producer education through a published newsletter, continued ranch visits, and a producer education event scheduled for September.

Painted Hills Natural Beef has built its program and its ideals around providing the consumer a product they can be confident in. We will continue to listen to these folks that support us and make their priority our priority.
